CORY HENRY HEADLINES ROSSLYN JAZZ FEST

5:30PM: Two-time Grammy award winner and former Snarky Puppy keyboardist Cory Henry will headline the 2018 Rosslyn Jazz Fest with his new band The Funk Apostles. The group will bring their unique blend of blues, soul, R&B, Afrobeat, gospel and jazz to the festival in advance of their album release later this year. NPR calls Henry "a master," and says his "musical charisma is a match for a nearly 400 pound [Hammond B-3] organ." One of modern music's most inventive minds, he's truly come into his own as a bandleader and storyteller.

3:45PM: ORQUESTA AKOKÁN Listening to Orquesta Akokán, you can't help but feel the spirits of Cuba's musical giants radiating from the speakers. Their arrangements carry the exquisite beauty, pathos and playfulness of the renowned dance orchestras of the 1940s and 1950s yet still manage to sound fresh and new, as their debut recording on Daptone Records attests.

2:20PM: TRUE LOVES The Rosslyn Jazz Fest marks the East Coast debut for True Loves, an eight-piece instrumental soul group from Seattle. John Richards of KEXP calls them one of the city's best bands. "It's the soundtrack to that car chase you've always wanted to be in," he says.

1PM: AZTEC SUN Known for their infectious songwriting, rhythmic versatility and energetic performances, Aztec Sun has twice landed a spot on Washington City Paper's coveted "best of" list. Modeled in the funk and soul traditions, they're a go-to band for live events and house parties in the D.C. area.
